PROHIBITIONISTS FAIL TO NAME A TICKET

Only One Nomination Made and That Was Declined—Another Caucus in a Week.

There were eight in attendance at the caucus of the prohibition party of Tuesday evening in the Bill block, and but little was done except to wonder where the others were. Frank Haglund was chosen chairman after the caucus had been called to order by E.
A. Smith and he was made clerk.
Many of those present thought that inasmuch as there were so few present that nothing should be done, while one or two favored making up a ticket among those who it was thought would accept nomination. Robert McNeely was nominated for mayor, but declined, saying that while he had considered the small chance of election he did not think any one should accept a nomination unless in case of election they felt competent to fill the office.

E. A. Smith said he found much sentiment in favor of a new ticket in the city and considered there were enough who would accept a nomination to secure a full ticket. After much debate, however, it was decided that nothing would be done until next Tuesday, when another caucus will be held. The feeling prevailed that all on the ticket should be prohibitionists.

ROUND TABLE CLOSURES ITS YEAR.

Gathering at Summer Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fanning in Ledyard—Officers Elected.

The year of the Norwich Round Table was brought to a most delightful close on Tuesday evening at a meeting held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fanning in Ledyard. To the recall the members responded interestingly with vacation anticipations, following which letters from the members were read. A thoughtful paper, Holland's Place Among the Nations of Today, was read by Rev. William T. Thayer and given a pleasant ure. At a business session the programme committee reported that the topic decided upon for next year was Great American Authors. The Times.
The election of officers resulted in these choices: President, Edwin A.
Tracy; vice president, William D. Tilson; secretary and treasurer, Mrs.
Mary G. Webster. These officers, with the addition of Mrs. Frank A. Roath and Mrs. William T. Thayer, will make up the membership committee, while Rev. William T. Thayer was re-elected chairman of the programme committee with power to select the other members. After intermission, during which Mrs. Fanning served refreshments, the Round Table members played the original game of Who's Who? Mrs. S. S.
Thresher read her paper, postponed from the last meeting, completing the Shuttle.

WEST SIDE RUNAWAY.

Wagon Damaged in West Main Street in Collision With Pole.

There was an exciting runaway on West Main street about 2.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when a double team in a heavy wagon started from Thames square without their driver and came to a stop when they ran head on into a telegraph pole in front of Pfeiffer's blacksmith shop. They were caught by Mr. Pfeiffer and his helper, Bill Miller. The horses belonged to a Scotland road farm and were in the city in charge of a colored driver.

When they hit the telegraph pole they split the pole of the wagon and broke both whiffletrees, besides snapping the traces so that they swung around with their heads together, facing in the opposite direction from which they had been coming. They were then easily caught.

GEORGE S. SMITH

diers' Hospital Board.

senate and working for the amendatory bankruptcy bill.

Death To Bed Bugs!

There are two ways to bring about their destruction and your own emancipation from them.

One of them is to get up at night when you are unable to sleep because of their ravages and kill them any old way.

The other and better way—the way that insures you an unbroken sleep free from bugs, is to use the famous

NEW OFFICERS OF STATE DEPARTMENT, G. A. R.

George S. Smith Assistant Adjutant General—Charles W. Emerson Assistant Quartermaster General.

The offices of assistant adjutant general and of assistant quartermaster general, G. A. R., have been separated on recommendation from Gen. William E. Morgan of New Haven. Past wich Stationary Engineers' association, No. 1, had notice of the state convention to be held in New Haven June 24-25, of which a feature will be the big exhibit by the supply men, which is promised to be the largest ever put on at a state convention. The Norwich delegates are to be elected at the next meeting, three being the number to which local No. 1 is entitled. The first day of the convention is to be for nearly a dozen candidates for initiation.

About eight of these belong to Norwich council, and the others to Thames. They are all to be initiated together in New London on Friday, June 24, where a union meeting with and it was voted to send delegates to the field day exercises at Derby June 18. Great interest is being taken in the annual fair social this week, when the committee promises a good time.

REPRIEVE WILL BE ASKED FOR DIADATO.

New London Young Man Under Sentence to Be Hanged Soon After Midnight Tonight.

It was learned Tuesday at the office of Governor Weeks, at the capitol, Hartford, that he would be asked to reprieve Dominick Diadato, who is sentenced to be hanged at Westfield early Thursday morning. The governor was absent, and the case will be taken before him today. The supreme court recently affirmed the decision of the lower court. The accused, killed Alfonso Barbato in New London on May 27, 1909.

Diadato was tried in this city at the September term of the criminal court last year, and the appeal was heard before the supreme court here in April.

Some in this county have been granting the privilege of attending the hanging, the reprieve not being granted.

MORE WERE SKIPPED IN TAKING CENSUS.

One Man Was Refused by Enumerators Both Here and in New York.

The Bulletin was informed on Tuesday that the census enumerators in covering their districts here had failed to secure two names, as follows:

Miss Amy H. Dowe, Summer street.

R. H. Harris, Norwich, Conn.

These names will be sent to the superintendent, as have others who were missed. Mr. Harris states that he works in New York but his home is here. In New York the enumerator failed to take him, saying he belongs here, while he states that the enumerator here told him that he belonged in New York. The result is that he is not included in the census, he says.

It is quite evident that the work of canvassing the city for the census of 1910 has been very poorly done. "It is all right," said an old-time politician, "to divorce the appointment of census takers from politics and allow college professors to tackle the job, but the result will show that the old method of appointing census takers is better than allowing the politicians to select some of their young party workers to canvass the city for names. The party workers know practically every voter in the city, and have been over the ground time and again, and few heads of families would escape them. Under the system of appointment this year the young men and women selected may have been intelligent and willing enough, but certainly none could claim experience in the kind of work cut out for them.
The pay of three cents a head is little enough, and if a census taker figures his time as worth anything he has got to be on the jump all the time if he wants to make a fair day's pay."

"I notice in a letter to The Day one enumerator writes that he couldn't wait for the convenience of people in making his canvass and that he was allowed to skip questioning the family at any house if he could get the desired information next door or from some other source. This does not sound like a good excuse. If this plan was extensively followed, a good many errors and omissions must have occurred in the present census. I hope the names of all the people reported as not being gathered by the enumerators will be sent to Professor Bailey at New Haven, so that he can see what kind of work his civil service appointees have been doing."

"Talking about the census," remarked the proprietor of one of the leading manufacturing establishments, "I wonder how accurate the census of manufacturing operations will be.
Certainly the young man who came to see me in regard to filling out the census returns didn't know as much about the job as I did, and I didn't know anything. I had to explain the details to him, and show what the census meant. Otherwise the returns would have been utterly defective. He may have found matters less complicated elsewhere, but I have my doubts."
